

PRESS RELEASE RE BARRY SAMUELS – 18.01.10

GSC Solicitors Appoints Leading Commercial Litigator to Expand Dispute Resolution Capability

Specialist City law firm GSC Solicitors LLP has announced the appointment of Barry Samuels, who joins the firm as a Consultant to expand the litigation and dispute resolution practice.

Barry joins the firm from Kingsley Napley where he was head of the litigation practice. He qualified at Nabarro Nathanson in 1972 and has over 35 years' experience specialising in high profile property and shareholder disputes, frequently involving an international element.

At GSC he will be responsible for developing the commercial litigation capability in conjunction with Michael Shapiro, head of commercial litigation, particularly looking at complex shareholder disputes and commercial property litigation.

Commenting on the appointment, GSC Senior Partner Saleem Sheikh said: "We are delighted that Barry has chosen to join us. His breadth of experience and significant understanding of a number of our core market sectors, particularly financial services, and real estate will provide an invaluable resource for our clients, and strengthen our ability to undertake the most complex commercial disputes."

Barry Samuels added: "I am delighted to be joining GSC and I have been very impressed by the firm's commercial approach with its clear focus on delivering innovative solutions for clients set within a collegiate environment. This ideally complements my own expertise, whilst the firm's culture and pro-active approach is well suited to my corporate and commercial clients".
